

SPECIALIZED MASTER'S 2025 FLEXIBLE FALL START

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY IN ST. LOUIS

Alternative Fall Semester Plan for Visa-Delayed Students

To better support students impacted by delayed visa appointments or extended application review timelines, WashU Olin Business School will offer a delayed start date of October 20 for four of our specialized master's programs. Students will have the same internship and career opportunities over the duration of their program and will retain their anticipated December 2026 graduation date.

Programs Eligible for Flexible Fall Start

Master of Accounting

MS in Business Analytics

Concentrations: FinTech Analytics, Customer Analytics, Supply Chain

MS in Finance

Concentrations: Wealth and Asset Management, Quantitative Finance

MS in Supply Chain Management

Same Curriculum, Condensed Format

Courses will include the same academic content and credit hours as the traditional August-start schedule. The mid-semester fall start will:

- Shift the semesters that students take some electives and required courses
- Condense some required Fall courses into a half-semester format with twice the typical weekly content hours

Sample Program Schedule

*credits are dependant on program curriculum

Student Support

Students joining WashU Olin at the October start date will receive dedicated support from the Graduate Programs Office and the Student Affairs team, helping students engage with tutoring resources, student clubs, experiential learning, faculty connections, and more.
